You may be entitled to Child Benefit for up to six months for a young person who cannot attend school, college, or training but there must be a good reason why they cannot attend, for example:

- they are ill
- the school, college, or training establishment is temporarily closed
- they are moving from one school, college, or training establishment to another
- someone close to them is ill or has died
- they are pregnant

If they cannot attend because of illness or disability, you may be entitled to Child Benefit for longer.
